Hi guys a local track junkie pointed this out to me today. it has the right parts and is cheap and comes with a spare motor that is fresh. Guys Porsche is a local shop that does good work. I looked at this car when I was first interested in getting into Spec but don't remember much about the details. I bought the 999 car instead.

I can go look at it if any of you are interested.

Hi All,

I am completely new to the 944 community and have been thinking about picking up a 944 to race in the Spec class. I've only just started reading up on the class and have a lot more reading/learning to do.

I think you guys would know better than me reading through all the rules so i will ask, would this specific car fit the 944 spec class? Are there any concerns you see with this car/class?

just Starting to look into buying a car but this seems like it would be a great start and save a lot of time. Thanks cbuzzetti for the post!!!

This car did run in the local PCA chapter in GSR. The rules for GSR were the same as 944Spec about 6 years ago. We have had some minor rules changes since then but this car should be able to meet those rules.
