

Where to get a roll cage installed

Posted by Fooshe - 21 Mar 2011 22:39

If you were going to have a chromoly cage put in your 944, where would you have it done in So Cal?

=====

Re: Where to get a roll cage installed

Posted by sagoston - 22 Mar 2011 07:56

www.piercemotorsports.com/

.

=====

Re: Where to get a roll cage installed

Posted by Fooshe - 22 Mar 2011 09:39

I talked with Jim at pierce motorsports and he was outstanding!! I can't say enough about our conversation.

Thanks for the heads up Steve. Working on a buddy getting a car and he will be building it from scratch.

=====

Re: Where to get a roll cage installed

Posted by ikazuchi - 03 Aug 2012 14:29

Anybody have suggestions for San Diego county? The closer to north county (Escondido), the better.

I was going to go with a bolt-in Autopower setup I picked up, but have seen a couple nasty crashes recently that made me re-think that.

=====

Re: Where to get a roll cage installed

Posted by Bottoz - 06 Aug 2012 09:47

Try a mail order Hanksville cage. He recently shipped out his 65th 944 cage. Custom options are available...

=====

Re: Where to get a roll cage installed

Posted by ikazuchi - 06 Aug 2012 10:00

I've thought about that, but I wouldn't trust my welding skills (and my MIG needs gas) so I'd have to find somebody local to install it for me anyways.

=====