

FS: 1984/87 944Spec - $SOLD

Posted by Z3SpdDmn - 08 Nov 2010 11:02

Hey there; I haven't posted here much at all, but I've been working on a 944Spec that I'm now selling. I've raced with some of you MidWeseterners before, as I drive the #003 SpecE30 in the Great Lakes Region. I picked up this car earlier last year to fix up and use as a rental at the Bluegrass Motorsports Park, which is only 30 minutes from me, in northern KY. The track surface is laid, but progress stagnated and there is no indication that the facility will be finished within the next 2 years. So, I need to cash out of this car and move it on to someone who will use it.

The car is an '84 that has an '87 powertrain. It was built for SCCA enduros in ITS, but it looks like it will fit right into 944SPEC. From what I was told, it had an impact in it's first race and was put away, then acquired by the person I bought it from. I got it sorted, fixing or replacing what was needed to get it to it's current state. It runs and shifts well, as I was just driving it around this past weekend, but it needs fluids changed to race-spec stuff and an alignment before being track-tested. The oil pressure was good and coolant temp stays below 200.

It seems to have been a very well-built car from the beginning. I understand there are some advantages to the '87 motor. It has the LSD transaxle (sorry, not sure what 5th gear ratio it has), Koni shocks, aluminum control arms with poly bushings, Momo steering wheel, wink mirror, helmet blower (with dash switch), and auxilary gauges (oil pressure, water temp, tach). The headlights and their motor are still installed and working.

I have a Corbeau seat and older G-Force belts and window net that will be in the car. I will have the front valence replaced (there's a fiberglass turbo-look front end included, but it's in 2 pieces) and the "style mirrors installed. For the price of $5000, I'll have the belts/net updated to current, all the fluids changed to race-spec, and have the car aligned. This car has a title, which I will transfer to it's next owner.

I'll do my best to answer any questions. I'd prefer to have this car gone before winter to a) get it out of the shop where it's living and b) so the next owner can use the winter to tweak it to his/her desire for the 2011 season. Feel free to email at anthony.magagnoli@tema.dottoyota.dotcom or Z3SpdDmn@aol.com, or call 585-315-7606.

THANKS,

=====