Jeff tell me a little more about your question. Did you see the post on "steering rack" 3 Weeks ago? paul thanks for getting back to me. my power steering adjustment arm broke while at the track so i ran without it. I just found the post you mentioned and agree that it's fine to run without it... I almost didn't notice. All I want to do is remove the ps pump. I saw someone referred to "looping the lines". I'm not sure what that means exactly but i wonder if that is what i need to do? if so, what, more precisely should i do?

I am referring to an '87 924s.

thanks

JeffB
