

Road Atlanta - August Event

Posted by FastTater - 08 Jul 2013 10:36

Looking forward to my first event as a licensed driver. I am hoping for our largest turn out of Spec 944s. Manly is supposed to have his car ready and Jason too. Did AgRacer get his head fixed?

So far it looks like 7+ if repairs get done.

AgRacer

What about Victor, RJ, others?

Just talked to Victor this morning and he has sold his car to another NASA SE'r, Jacob Mullins, who is planning on racing with us. Don't know if he is planning on making it in August or not-

RJ is still chasing his oil pressure problem so he is still up in the air.

The field is shaping up pretty well so far, though!

Im a Jason as well. Whats funny is there are two Phils in the Texas Region.

I dont have my head fixed yet. I also currently dont have a dash in the car, or any wiring other than the engine harness. It rained here the entire 4th of July extended week end and I was bored. I have plans in place to get everything together in time. I have an added incentive because I may be bringing a few new DE participants so I dont want to leave them hanging.

There is always some thrashing up to any event...I still have to complete a few things myself

- Install ram air
- Add LSD / Short fifth to new trans and install
- new lock bolts for CSV joints
- Clips for back hatch
- Corner Balance (Theory Racing Chassis is doing this for me)

Every night, I try to get at least one item done.

Anybody looking for a good deal on a set of late Koni sport shocks? I know somebody from Texas who wants to sell a pair to a fellow spec racer.

Only four of us registered for August. Missing two Jasons? Others?
